Sanguinetti upsets Nalbandian in first round

TORONTO (Reuters) — Third seed Argentine David Nalbandian went out of the Toronto Masters in the first round on Monday when he was beaten 6-1, 6-2 by gray-haired Italian Davide Sanguinetti.

The burly Nalbandian, a semi-finalist at the Australian Open and Miami Masters earlier this season, was completely out-classed by the 33-year-old Italian qualifier, who needed just 58 minutes to collect his first win in three attempts on Canadian hard courts.

Sanguinetti had just three career wins over top 10 opponents and the 24-year-old Nalbandian, currently a career-high number three in the world rankings, represents the biggest scalp claimed by a man who spent last week playing at Challenger event in Recanati, Italy.

Sanguinetti has two career titles, top his resume and both came over two of the tennis's biggest names as he beat Roger Federer in the final in Milan in 2002 and Andy Roddick a month later at Delray Beach, but before both players had yet to crack the top 10.

"I was relaxed," the 6ft 6in Sanguinetti told reporters. "If I lose, it's not a shame to lose to number three in the world. I was surprised by the score but I think I made him play my game."

"I love it. I have to see the old man can still win against the young guys."

Although Nalbandian reached the final of the Canadian Masters in 2002 losing to Roddick, he has had mixed fortunes in Canada, dropping out in the first round in 2004 and the second round last year.

The Argentine attributed his latest early exit to a fever that he said left him short of energy.

Third-seeded David Nalbandian, from Argentina, returns a shot during his loss to Davide Sanguinetti, from Italy, at the Rogers Cup tennis tournament in Toronto Monday.

"I had a fever but I wanted to try and play," said the South American. "I said to myself that I would give it a go."

"I had nothing to lose and I couldn't make it any worse. I tried to compete but I didn't have the energy today."

Sanguinetti, who turns 34 later this month, says he has no intention of retiring, instead setting his sights on the 2008 Beijing Olympics, drawing inspiration from 36-year-old Andre Agassi, who will retire after the U.S. Open.

"To me Agassi is the hero because to be 36, to be in the top 10 is unbelievable," said Sanguinetti. "My goal is to try and do like Agassi did in his career."

"I would wish to win all the tournaments he has won but my goal with my age is to keep playing."

"I set my goal to go to the Olympiics to 2008, I have to keep working for this goal."

In other first round action, fourth seed Juan Pablo Brunello of Croatia eased pasted Spain's Nicolas Pietrangeli 6-3, 6-0.

It was the third round in an appearance in Canada for Lubovic, who is playing his first hard court event since reaching the final of the Miami Masters in April where he lost to Federer. Marat Safin of Britain's Tatneft team received easy passage into the second round breezing past Sweden's Jonas Bjorkman 6-1, 6-3.

Herman's former Davis Cup team mate Greg Rusedski, however, just lost to Andre Ruzsici 6-4, 6-3.

Battling a potential hip injury, he had sidelined him since first round loss at Wimbledon, the Canadian-born Rusedski conceded after a match that it was probably his last appearance in Toronto.

Gatlin's legal team ready to state case to panel

RALEIGH, North Carolina (Reuters) — Justin Gatlin's legal team is ready to state its case to a U.S. Anti-Doping Agency (USADA) panel that will review the Olympic champion's positive drug test, his attorney said on Monday.

"We will be filing our submission today," Cameron Myler told Reuters by e-mail.

She said the documents would not be available publicly, and in a telephone conversation last week said she would not discuss the contents of the filings.

The panel will review Gatlin's positive April test for the male sex hormone testosterone, and its precursors and will make a recommendation to USADA on whether there is a case against the 30-year-old sprinter.

"I'm not sure when the review board will make its decision," Myler said in the e-mail.

A USADA official said the anti-doping agency would not comment if charged Gatlin would face a life ban because it would be his second doping offence.

The review panel is expected to look at documents from Gatlin's positive A and B samples, any filings USADA might make and the sportswear's attorneys' documents.

The panel will then confer, either by telephone, and make a recommendation to USADA, according to the anti-doping agency's rules.

USADA, based on that recommendation, will decide whether Gatlin should be charged with a doping offence.

If charged, he would have an opportunity to contest it. USADA decision and the recommended sanction first before a U.S. panel of judges and then panel of international judges from the Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS).

The 24-year-old announced on July 29 that he had tested positive at the Kansas Relays in April 22.

He said he had never knowingly taken banned substances but did not know how he had test positive.

Since Gatlin's announcement his coach, Trevor Graham, has been banned by the U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) from using its facilities.

USOC chairman Peter Uebloch said the decision was "due to the unusual number of athletes he has coached who have been convicted of doping offences."

More than half a dozen athletes coached or previously coached by Graham, including disgraced former 100-meter world record holder Tim Montgomery, have been suspended for doping.

Nikolay Davydenko of Russia hits a return to Juan Ignacio Chela of Argentina Monday, in the Western & Southern Financial Group Masters tennis tournament in Mason, Ohio.

Juan Ignacio Chela of Argentina eyes a return to Nikolay Davydenko, Russia Monday, in the Western & Southern Financial Group Masters tennis tournament in Mason, Ohio.

Davydenko succumbs to Chela

CINCINNATI (Reuters) — Fifth seed Nikolay Davydenko became the first major casualty at the Cincinnati Masters when he lost 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 to Argentine Juan Ignacio Chela in the opening round on Monday.

But number six James Blake led an American hat-trick of opening victories, scoring a 6-4, 6-4 win over Fabrice Santoro on a bad day for France.

Robby Ginepri and former finalist Mardy Fish followed suit for the U.S., with the 15th-seeded Ginepri eliminating another French opponent in Paul-Henri Mathieu, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Wildcard Fish, losing finalist in 2003 to Andy Roddick, outclassed 61st-ranked Nicolas Pietrangeli of France.

Argentine Chela handed Russia's Davydenko a second consecutive first-round hardcourt defeat in the wake of a clay title won last month at Sopot, Poland.

The marathon man has played in 24 of a possible 25 tournaments this season, registering a 44-22 record.

Chela, who broke his opponent four times, saw himself vince Spadea of the U.S. for Italian Andreas Seppi.

Third seed David Nalbandian swept past South African qualifier Rik De Voest, 6-0, 6-4, despite rain interruptions totaling more than two hours.

The Argentine, who has been troubled recently by abdominal injuries, said his game was on the mend.

"I'm playing better, the first round is always tough," Nalbandian told reporters. "I'm feeling much better than last week."

Seven days ago, he lost 6-1, 6-2 to Italian Davide Sanguinetti in the opening round of the Toronto Masters.

Eighth seed Marcos Baghdatis, runner-up at the Australian Open and the newest member of the world's top 10, knocked out Thomas Johansson of Sweden, 7-6(7), 6-3.

It's been an amazing year for me. The only thing I need to do to win a tournament," said the Cypriot.

Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal are the top seeds this week.

American Wilson up to 72nd in world rankings

LONDON (Reuters) — American Dean Wilson climbed 78 places to 72nd in the world rankings issued on Monday after claiming his maiden victory on the PGA Tour at the International.

Wilson, who has won six times on the Japanese tour, birdied the second playoff hole at Castle Rock, Colorado on Sunday to defeat U.S. Ryder Cup captain Tom Lehman.

Briton Simon Dyson rose 33 positions to 77th after seizing his second European Tour title of the season.

Dyson beat Australian Richard Green at the first playoff hole in the Dutch Open at the Kennemer Golf & Country Club in Zandvoort.

Redskins hoping Portis ready for season opener

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Washington Redskins coach Joe Gibbs said Monday he was hopeful injured running back Clinton Portis would be ready for the season opener next month.

Portis suffered a partial dislocation of his left shoulder in the first quarter of Sunday night's preseason game against the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It will be something that will be sore," Gibbs told reporters. "As soon as we get the soreness out of there, we feel he can start rehabbing. We would hope he will be ready for the opener."

The loss of Portis for any length of time would be a devastating blow for the Redskins, a team much-improved over last year's 10-6 squad that advanced to the second round of the playoffs.

Portis injured the shoulder while tackling Keiwan Ratliff, a Bengals cornerback who had intercepted a pass by Redskins starter Mark Brunell and raced 52 yards down the sideline.

The fifth-year running back, a 2003 Pro Bowl performer who has rushed for at least 1,300 yards in each of his NFL seasons, landed on his left shoulder while slamming Ratliff to the ground.

Gibbs defended his decision to use Portis in the team's first exhibition game, a 19-3 victory by the host Bengals.
